BODY HEAT!

VIVACIOUS Valerie Macwilliam is a busy model and actress who says she loves country music and cheesecake. One look at this picture and we're sure our readers will agree they love cheesecake, too! Auburn-haired, Valerie runs her own beauty salon — and if she makes her customers look half as good as this, it must be one busy shop!

in Cape Girardeau: Your main man, "Benjamin," is more right for you than "Gerald." I'll try to cast a love spell, but I can't promise any results. Hey, I'm new at this!

Name Game in Ottawa: The name on the inside cover of that rare book you recently bought matches the name of your future fate-mate. Stay tuned for a new chapter in your life!

Too Many U-Turns in Tecumseh: I'm sorry, but I am not yet qualified to answer your question. That one is going to have to wait 'til my sister wakes up.

TAN-TASTIC

AS PROMISED, we're giving you another go at our Page 5 Girl, Valerie Macwilliam. Here she is in her favorite bathing suit, getting ready for a swim. A few more pictures of Valerie, and you'll be the one who needs to cool off!

Mooning me!

Dear Dotti: My brother is a real troublemaker. He always wants to go where I go and brings his rude, nasty friends, too. Worst of all, he moons me and my friends and flashes them, too. Please help me, Dotti, to make him stop. I tried everything but nothing helps. But I know you can help me. —

Annoyed in Deep Gap

Dear Annoyed: The next time the little twerp shows you a full moon — or better yet flashes you — show him the business end of a steel-toed boot!

Should I sue my mechanic over male-oriented magazines?

Dear Dotti: I am a recently divorced woman. My husband used to fix my car, but now that he's gone,

I bring my car to a neighborhood shop for servicing. While I wait in their waiting room, I notice they have magazines to read, but they are all about fishing, hunting, mechanics, racing, etc. In other words, they're all male-oriented publications! I think that's terrible. Why don't they have magazines for women, too? I think I should sue. What do you think? — Lady Driver in Detroit

Dear Lady: What a sexist attitude you have. What do you mean male-oriented? You're only adding to the stereotypes. Besides, you shouldn't be reading, you should be standing over those repairmen, WET 'N WILD!

ONCE is never enough, so we're treating you to another look at Page 5 Girl Valerie Macwilliam. There's even more of the auburn-haired beauty in the rest of this issue — check it out.
